

1. National winter camp at Auchengillan Scout Camp Site by Loch Lomond just north of Glasgow, Scotland.

Dates: 12-14 February 2027 - Sub Zero Winter Camp, Scotland – bookings need to be in by 30 September to confirm a place indoors. Camping places will be available until around Christmas when the event will sell out. This event is always popular and sells out quickly hence the deadline in September so we can pre-order spaces.

Here is the link to pre-order spaces and pay by credit card – this can be shared with parents/carers.

Any adults aged 18+ will require an additional disclosure check through Disclosure Scotland. Adults can come on their own as helpers.

The event is open to both Scouts and Guides and the minimum age is 10.

There will be a BSO contingent, so young people can travel and be met at Glasgow airport by Leanne, one of our leaders.

BSO Contingent Sub Zero Camp

Tents will be provided by Scottish Scout Groups. There is an extra fee if you prefer to sleep indoors and there is also an optional charged extra activity if you decide to go on the off-site trip to the dry ski slope for skiing and tubing.

We have 4 BSO leaders and 12 BSO scouts/explorers signed up already.

This is a popular camp as the activities are queue and go so young people choose their own activities and queue as often as they like. The only exception is the heated outdoor swimming pool. Scouts have set sessions during the days as do adults. Explorers have pool parties in the dark.

Scouts will be camping beside their leaders and the communal dining shelter and catering area. Explorers will be in their own sub camp with the other explorers.

Here is the link to the video for the last camp.

<https://www.facebook.com/share/v/1ZFaBtrp6k/>

If you can get decent priced flights in to Glasgow (or even Edinburgh) then it will be worth trying.